

Our Mission

We strive to provide a family with a personally and professionally trained service dog that will enhance the life of a child with autism, and ensure success through continued education for the family.

Why Pawsitism, Inc.:

- According to Autism Speaks, Autism affects 1 in 36 children in the United States, up from the previous rate of 1 in 44.
- Research involving children with autism found that those who had a family pet from a young age tended to have greater social skills.
- Still other research has shown how social behaviors in children who have autism temporarily improve after even a short play period with a live animal.
- The benefits of an Autism Assistance Service Dog are proving to be truly remarkable. They assist people on the autism spectrum with completing daily tasks, preventing someone to wander, acting as a calming presence during overwhelming situations, and companionship.

Cost to train an Autism Service Dog: The total cost to raise, train, provide vet care, feed, and purchase all the necessary supplies is $15,000.
